Murder at the Powder Magazine Sep 15 2021 In 1765, young Luck Key has just come of age and accepted a position of Junior Clerk to Williamsburg lawyer George Wythe, a legendary attorney and teacher of Thomas Jefferson. On his first day he stumbles upon a murder of a member of the House of Burgesses and is enlisted by Sheriff William Norvell to assist in the investigation. Colonial Virginia is in an uproar over the British Parliament's new taxes and lack of representation. Is the murder related to the politics of the House of Burgesses? Is it revenge for selling and splitting the family of African-American slaves? Why was the victim at the Powder Magazine at midnight? As young Mr. Key assists the Sheriff in his investigation he is confronted with the role of slavery in Virginia and critical questions of ethics and leadership as he grows to understand more about Colonial Virginia and himself. He observes the debate over the Stamp Act, the legendary speech of Patrick Henry and the conflicting views of members of the House of Burgesses. His fondness for the victim's daughter raises complications that he must resolve. This historical mystery remains true to the colonial period in Williamsburg, the Capital of Virginia. There are many possible suspects, but the motive of the murder is illusive. It is up to Key, Norvell and Wythe to unravel the various possibilities and uncover the murderer.

"The Mystery of the Yellow Room" is one of the first locked-room mystery crime fiction novels. It is the first novel starring fictional detective Joseph Rouletabille, and concerns a complex and seemingly impossible crime in which the criminal appears to disappear from a locked room. Leroux provides the reader with detailed, precise diagrams and floorplans illustrating the scene of the crime. The emphasis of the story is firmly on the intellectual challenge to the reader, who will almost certainly be hard pressed to unravel every detail of the situation. Opera singer Christine triumphs at the gala on the night of the old managers' retirement. Her old childhood friend, Raoul, hears her sing and recalls his love for Christine. At this time, there are rumours of a phantom living at the Opera and he makes himself known to the managers through letters and malevolent acts. Sometime after the gala, the Paris Opera performs Faust, with the prima donna Carlotta playing the lead, against the Phantom's wishes. During the performance, Carlotta loses her voice and the grand chandelier plummets into the audience... Other novels included are: The Secret of the Night, The Man with the Black Feather and Baloo. Gaston Leroux (1868-1927) was a French journalist and author of detective fiction. In the English-speaking world, he is best known for writing the novel The Phantom of the Opera (Le Fantôme de l'Opéra), which has been made into several film and stage productions of the same name.

The Phantom of the Opera & The Mystery of the Yellow Room (Unabridged) Apr 29 2020 The Mystery of the Yellow Room" is one of the first locked-room mystery crime fiction novels. It is the first novel starring fictional detective Joseph Rouletabille, and concerns a complex and seemingly impossible crime in which the criminal appears to disappear from a locked room. Leroux provides the reader with detailed, precise diagrams and floorplans illustrating the scene of the crime. The emphasis of the story is firmly on the intellectual challenge to the reader, who will almost certainly be hard pressed to unravel every detail of the situation. The Phantom of the Opera" is a story inspired by historical events at the Paris Opera during the nineteenth century. Opera singer Christine triumphs at the gala on the night of the old managers' retirement. Her old childhood friend, Raoul, hears her sing and recalls his love for Christine. At this time, there are rumours of a phantom living at the Opera and he makes himself known to the managers through letters and malevolent acts. Sometime after the gala, the Paris Opera performs Faust, with the prima donna Carlotta playing the lead, against the Phantom's wishes. During the performance, Carlotta loses her voice and the grand chandelier plummets into the audience... Gaston Leroux (1868-1927) was a French journalist and author of detective fiction. In the English-speaking world, he is best known for writing the novel The Phantom of the Opera (Le Fantôme de l'Opéra, 1910), which has been made into several film and stage productions of the same name.

Science in Primary Schools: Examining the Practices of Effective Teachers May 11 2021 If the status and quality of science education in schools is to improve, efforts need to be made to better understand the classroom practices of effective science teachers. Teachers are key players in a re-imagining of science education. This book explores how two primary school teachers, identified as effective practitioners, approached science teaching and learning over a unit of work. In recording the teaching and learning experiences in their classrooms, the author highlights how the two teachers adopted different approaches, drawing on their particular beliefs and knowledge, to support student learning in science in ways that were appropriate to their contexts as well as reflected their different experiences, strengths and backgrounds. Through sharing their stories, this book illustrates, that due to the complex nature of teaching and learning, there is no one way of defining effectiveness. In documenting this research, it is hoped that other teachers and teacher educators will be inspired to think about primary school science education in innovative ways. At a Homeland Dell Where's the Lost Key Kell? Jun 19 2019 In ancient times, a young Evergreen queen was faced with the impending Battle at Black Woods.
